La Settimana Veterinaria

La Settimana Veterinaria, part of the Italian veterinary editorial sector more than 30 years now, is the first weekly professional magazine for vets. Every week, with 46 issues per year, vets can find news and insights concerning the technical-scientific, professional, political and trade union veterinary world. Reports of conferences, interviews and insights of the international veterinary world are meant to broaden the professional horizon of vets. Alongside, there are numerous in-depth scientific, management and commentary sections.

Each issue is enriched by a "Dossier", that develops a specific professional aspect: scientific or practical. In the magazine is also included the "Agenda": a large section devoted to the calendar of scientific events about Veterinary Medicine (practical information on conferences, courses, seminars, both national and international, with a detailed program) and to the classified ads of job offers, material, collaborations, etc.

Furthermore, the section "In Vetrina" is dedicated to the presentation of company or products news.

La Settimana Veterinaria, during scientific congresses or special events, is enriched with monothematic supplements dedicated to both pets and farm animals.
